What is ERI-Net?

Satoko Yano
ERI-Net Secretariat
UNESCO Bangkok
Established in 2009

Regional network of education research institutes (e.g., universities, NGOs, and think tanks)

Aims at:

- Facilitating regional collaboration in conducting education research on the topics pertinent in the Asia-Pacific region
- Develop education policy issues research capacity of the region
- Support evidence-informed education policy making
ERI-Net Growth

2009: ERI-Net launch
Members: 31 institutes from 12 countries

2012:
- PPP in higher education and TVET
- Youth employment
Financially supported by the Government of Republic of Korea

2013:
- Integration of non-cognitive/transversal skills in education (phase I)
- Transition from secondary to higher education
Financially supported by Tokyo Tech and KICE

2014 (planned):
- Integration of non-cognitive/transversal skills in education (phase II)
- Academic promotion of higher education personnel
Members: 91 institutes from 16 countries (including KEDI, KICE, KRIVET, APCEIU, and Korean National Open University)
Future directions

- Continue focusing on sector-wide issues, across levels of education (ECCE-Higher) and across streams of education (general-TVET)
- Expand geographical coverage (Pacific, Central Asia)
- Push “frontiers” of education policy research
- Taking Regional/sub-regional integration into considerations for future research
- Strengthen partnerships
Thank you